CONGRATULATES SUB SURVIVOR

Charlestown's Living Hero—At Bunker Hill Day banquet, held in Charlestown Armory, to honor America's patriots of 1776, Governor Leverett Saltonstall greets a 1939 hero. Francis X. Murphy (left) of Charlestown, surviving member of crew of ill-fated submarine Squalus, was one of the 33 saved as 26 others died.

Plot Target?—King Carol of Rumania, shown with son, Prince Michael, learned today of another assassination plot against him. Ringleaders of the death group were seized by secret police.

FATHER KILLS 2, SELF ON CAPE

Son, 40, First Victim, Then Neighbor Is Shot

DENNIS, June 17—Double-murder and suicide snuffed out the lives of a father, son and their neighbor here today.

The victims were Celestino Di Guivoni, 68, formerly of Mansfield; his son, Joseph 40, and their 50-year-old neighbor, Luigi Balidelli.

HITLER MOVES ON POLAND?

ZILINA, Slovakia, June 17 (AP)—More than 20,000 German troops have moved through this city in the past few days, heading for the Polish frontier, it was learned authoritatively.

A German military mission headed by three generals is staying at a hotel here.

Regular summer troop maneuvers are taking place throughout Germany, Berlin dispatches state, and troops may be seen on the highways moving in every direction. Zilina, in Northwestern Slovakia, is 20 miles from the Polish frontier. Germany established a military protectorate over Slovakia in March 16, on the break-up of Czechoslovakia.

Bares Peeking At Etting Home

LOS ANGELES, June 17 (INS)—A private detective told in court what he saw when he peeked through the window of a Hollywood home at Ruth Etting and Myrl Alderman.

It was a scene of domestic tranquility, with Alderman reading and the famous radio and musical comedy singing star pattering around the place doing household chores, declared John E. Merley, Alderman and his wife, Mrs. Alma Alderman, were parted by an interlocutory divorce decree at the time, but she claims to have had his assurance of a reconciliation.

Josef Hoffmann To Live on Coast

PHILADELPHIA, June 17 (AP)—Josef Hoffmann, world-famous Philadelphia pianist, shortly will give up his residence here and lead his family to a new home on an undisclosed rock-bound islet off the Pacific coast.

Friends said Hoffmann is leaving life-time associations for a life of an 8-year-old son, Edward, who is allergic to dust and pollen and might benefit by a change in climate.

LAUNCH NEW JAP CRUISER

YOKOHAMA, Japan, June 17 (AP)—The Japanese navy today launched a new cruiser, the Katori, but declined to make public its specifications.

Almost instant death came with three blasts of buckshot from a .12 gauge shotgun, after the elder Di Guivoni engaged with his son in a bitter quarrel over the father's medical care.

Still carrying his shotgun, the elder Di Guivoni knocked at the Harriman home to tell her of his "troubles."

TELLS OF TRAGEDY

"I just shot my son," he told her. "I was sick and asked him to get me a doctor. But he told me I was all right and was only complaining."

The son, shot in the wrist, ran to the home of Balidelli for aid. The pair were searching for him when the father spied them and opened fire again.

Balidelli fell dead from a charge of shot in the chest while young Di Guivoni tried to lock himself up in the cottage. There, the father caught up with the son and killed him.

Mrs. Harriman, frightened by the wild men of the killer, notified the state police at Barnstable.

HEARS DEATH BLAST

Even as she talked with them, she heard the shotgun roar. It was the blast which killed Balidelli.

While State Troopers Donald P. Tulloch, Albert Golain and Alfred Sanders robed over the roads to Dennis, the father completed the tragedy by reloading, leaning over his weapon and ending his life by a charge through the chest.

Father and son were found near each other in the spacious living room of their summer home. Balidelli lay dead outside his home about 200 yards away.

Probably Fair, Cooler Sunday

Gradually clearing weather, becoming fair late tonight, was predicted today by the Weather Man. Cool and clear weather was scheduled Sunday, becoming warmer Monday. A tropical storm headed north from the Gulf of Mexico was reported to have blown itself out in Alabama.

Hub Ukrainians To Visit World's Fair

Hundreds of Greater Boston residents of Ukrainian descent were on their way to New York to attend Ukrainian Day exercises at the World's Fair tomorrow.

Choral singing, folk dancing and solo musical numbers will be included in the special Fair program for Ukrainian-Americans. One Boston group was to leave by bus tonight from the Ukrainian Holy Trinity church, Arlington street, Back Bay.

11,000 MARCHERS CHEERED IN BUNKER HILL PARADE

Cheered by record throngs, units of Charlestown's colorful Bunker Hill Day-Citizenship Day parade formed today, as threatening skies failed to dampen enthusiasm in the district.

With 11,000 marchers, 40 bands and an impressive turnout of spectators, the celebration was the most elaborate since World War times.

The program of sports events and other competitions was only slightly delayed by early showers.

DOLL CARRIAGE PARADE

More than 100 contestants were on hand for the annual doll carriage parade around Monument square.

Charlestown's juvenile belles and their dollies were gaily bedecked, giving judges a problem they were to wrestle with until prize-ward time later in the day.

The doll-parade was watched by 1000 mothers and other spectators.

First sports event of the day, the Mayor Tobin three mile run, was won by Harry Melino of Charlestown. His victory was immediately made occasion for high rejoicing by his home-district boosters.

The five warships sent here for the Charlestown celebration lay in the harbor over night, then sailed into the navy yard shortly before noon, in holiday array.

1500 SAILORS MARCH

The ceremonial flotilla was led by the battleship Wyoming. Four destroyers followed her.

Detachments of blue jackets and ships' officers were soon marching ashore, to form a parade unit 1500 strong.

Baby Cries For 'Mummy' In Mystery Disappearance

"MISSING:

"Mrs. Michael Flaherty, 24, blonde, good-looking, about five feet five, slender; from her home on Harding terrace, Dedham."

This was the appeal carried today in an eight-state police broadcast—an appeal from a sick, distracted mother and a pretty, 19-months-old baby who cries "Mummy! Mummy!" without ever an answer.

According to Mrs. Helen McDonald, in whose home Mrs. Flaherty has been living for a year, the missing woman left her home one week ago Friday to go to her work at a conveyor belt in a Watertown rubber plant.

On that day, at 6:30 in the morning, she stepped into an auto driven by a girl friend, Alice Wienczek, also of Harding terrace, and after work she rode back as far as East Dedham square with Miss Wienczek.

"I'm going to the delicatessen," said Mrs. Flaherty, stepping out of the car there. "I'll see you again."

But she never did.

According to the information received by the police, Mrs. Flaherty has been separated from her husband for some months, and she has been ill for several weeks, under treatment by a Dedham doctor.

Police are also seeking Flaherty, said to be working in Marlboro. His family live in Norwood, where his father is well known; and Mrs. Flaherty's people live in South Boston.

AS POLICE SEARCH for mysteriously missing mother, 19-months-old Joan Flaherty (above) cries pitifully and can't understand why "mummy" hasn't come home for a week. Mother, Mrs. Patricia Boudreau Flaherty, strangely vanished from Harding terrace, East Dedham home, leaving the baby with a friend "for a few hours. She has not been heard from since.

Connolly to Fight Bar Ouster Demand

Declaring he was prepared to refute all charges made against him, John Patrick Connolly, clerk of Suffolk Superior Civil Court, today marshalled his legal forces for a court battle with the Boston Bar Association, which seeks his removal.

"I participated in none of the things the Boston Bar Association alleged," Connolly stated in announcing he would fight charges.

"Since I took office, I have worked conscientiously in behalf of the county and any changes I have made were merely to draw about me those best qualified to stand on my own record."

Action for removal was launched by a committee representing the Bar Association in the lobby of the State Supreme Court.

It was charged that Connolly had been guilty of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in office and had conducted himself in such "an unlawful and reprehensible manner" as to render him unfit to hold office.

Information given the court charged that Connolly had entered into a conspiracy with William T. Conway of Boston, and others, to coerce sums of money from employees in the clerk's office as a condition of continuing their employment.

It was also stated that Connolly appointed John J. McCarthy, an attorney, to a $2100 post as principal clerk, and that he performed substantially no other duty than to collect sums of money regularly, "on or about each pay day," from employees.

It was charged that Connolly at meetings held in Room 115 at the courthouse caused fellow conspirators to preside and make known that the respondent intended to be a candidate for re-election in 1940, and it would be necessary for the employees to raise between $20,000 and $22,000 to cover the alleged expense of his campaign.

Love to Jessel; Suit to Norma

HOLLYWOOD, June 17 (AP)—George Jessel, stage and radio entertainer, doesn't think his marriage to Norma Talmadge, one-time screen star, is on the rocks.

But the "osmoph" girl of silent pictures reiterated today that there is no hope of a reconciliation.

Jessel said, as he boarded a plane for New York to resume appearances at the World's Fair:

"We are still very much in love with each other. We have decided to separate for a while until she gets her health back."

To which Miss Talmadge replied: "It is definite there will be a divorce."

SAVES SELF BY LEAP OF 30 FEET AT FIRE

SOUTHERIDGE, June 17—Trapped on the third floor of a burning apartment building in Cross street here, 19-year-old Samuel Petrelli saved himself by a 30-foot leap for life into the arms of his brother, Albert, and Chief of Police Ulric Brault.

Linking arms, the brother and Chief Brault succeeded in breaking young Petrelli's fall, so that he escaped injury.

Mrs. Joseph Corriveau, 96, was carried from her second floor apartment by Patrolman Alfred Larriviere, after she had sprained her ankle and fallen unconscious. Sixteen other tenants were driven out. Damage was estimated at $5000.

REFUGEE SUICIDES HALTED

ANTWERP, June 17 (AP)—Refugee German Jews aboard the liner St. Louis, reaching their Antwerp haven today after a fruitless voyage to Cuba, said they had been compelled to form an anti-suicide committee to patrol the decks to prevent despondent passengers from leaping overboard.

Of the 937 Jews who left Hamburg May 13 expecting to land in Cuba, only one took his life, the passengers reported. He was a man who slashed his wrists and leaped into the harbor at Havana after the group was denied a haven there.

Refugees said that after they were barred from Cuba more than 200 of them formed a mass suicide pact, agreeing to leap overboard rather than return to Germany.

During the darkest days of the 6000-mile voyage the anti-suicide committee kept a 24-hour vigil on all decks.

The men required a closer watch than the women, the passengers reported. Some of them had just left concentration camps and others vowed equal determination not to return to Germany.

Those in the suicide pact made their agreement by word of mouth among the passengers.

Most of the refugees hope to enter the United States eventually when quota restrictions permit.

Convict Rich Bookie On Vagrancy Charge

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Frank A. Erickson, race track bookmaker, who produced $125,000 worth of securities to prove he was no vagrant, was convicted on a vagrancy charge here.

GIRL HIT BY BOLT; BIG LOSS IN GALE

A young woman was struck by lightning and fires with losses amounting to thousands of dollars were set off by two freak thunderstorms which swept Eastern New England early today.

Homes were struck in Eastern Massachusetts, and a bolt set a $100,000 fire when it struck electrical transformers at the plant of the Quabog Rubber Company at North Brookfield.

A chemical building was burned, and the west wing of the factory was damaged before flames, smothered by a church bell because the bolt put the fire alarm system out of commission, could extinguish the blaze.

The Columbia Yacht Club in South Boston was set ablaze by a lightning bolt, and a forest fire leaped from a tree to a lodging house in Lynn, breaking windows and shattering plaster.

In Southfield, R. I., Phyllis Caranci, 18, was severely injured by a bolt which hit her while she was asleep. She suffered burns on arms and shoulders; her hair was singed and her right shoulder was broken.

15 FLEE HOMES

Fifteen persons were forced to flee Central Falls, R. I., homes when a bolt set fire to a three-family house. Bolts hit staves and homes in Providence. Lights and power lines were broken.

Rhode Island state police, emergency power company crews and police guarded highways, where 23 high-tension wires were reported down.

Striking in same spot lightning hit two years ago, a freak bolt ripped through the roof of the home of Dr. James D. McCue of Silver Lake, Plympton, set the doctor's bed afire without injuring him, and ignited the house in two places.

Hard hit was Framingham, where bolts struck at least three times. Electric light service was disrupted and an emergency plant was called into service to supply electricity at Union Hospital when a manhole cover in Concord street was blown off.

Scores of dogs were led to safety when a building at Foster's Dog Kennels, Winn street, Woburn, was struck. Woburn firemen estimated damage at $200.

Hurricane-weakened trees were uprooted and wires were blown down by a 50-mile wind, which whipped through Northampton and surrounding towns.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Herman and their four young children narrowly escaped death in Northampton when a huge elm toppled over, smashing the roof above sleeping quarters. Another tree, which caught the force of the impact, prevented the elm from crushing the family in their beds.

FOIL PLOT TO KILL CAROL; 7 'NAZI' HEADS ARRESTED

BUCHAREST, June 17 (AP)—Discovery of a widespread plot to assassinate King Carol was announced by police today. Seven men were under arrest charged with preparing quantities of hand grenades for the attempt.

HAVE YOU A

Charge Account at Filene's?

... IT'S ONE OF THE THOUSAND AND ONE THINGS THAT MAKES FILENE'S Filene's

That a charge account is a very convenient service everyone agrees—but there is all the difference in the world between charge accounts. Here at Filene's you can get nearly any type of Charge Account you wish from a regular 30-day charge account with a Charge-plate... a ten-month convenient payment charge account for a high priced coat... 3 payment charge accounts for men's clothing or women's coats, furs or suits over $15... or shopping coupons.

But at Filene's we offer far MORE than just a Charge Account. Filene merchandise bears the famous Filene label—your assurance of complete satisfaction... plus Filene service... Filene trained salespeople... Filene courtesy... and all the thousand and one other things that make Filene's Filene's.

You'll find it a pleasure to open a Charge Account at Filene's and, incidentally, it is usable in the Main or Men's Stores as well as any of our Branch Shops.

The police, who said the arrested men were identified as members of the outlawed Iron Guard, identified them as a doctor of theology, secretary in an ammunition factory, four foremen in an arms plant, and a priest from Moldavia.

The government suppressed news of the alleged plot.

Premier Armand Calinescu, Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu and other members of the government also were reported marked for death.

Police said "half a hundred" arrests were expected shortly.

It was the third assassination plot reported against Carol or members of the government since the first of the year.

Today's arrests came as a surprise to the capital for the government had boasted that the Iron Guard had been liquidated.

The organization, which specialized in anti-Semitism and was closely patterned after Nazi German ideas, was outlawed some time ago by the king. Its leader, Corneliu Codreanu, known as Rumania's "Little Hitler," and 13 of his assistants were killed November 30, 1938, "while attempting to flee" a concentration camp.

From the time he reached his majority King Carol has been involved in royal romance, court intrigue and international machinations which included an early morganatic marriage that estranged him from his family, a royal match that restored him to favor, and exile in disgrace with the red-haired Mme. Magda Lupescu.

Then came his return by airplane to Bucharest to assume the throne from his young son, now the Crown Prince Mihai, in 1930.

Newfoundland Greets Royalty

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, June 17 (Canadian Press)—King George and Queen Elizabeth rode into the capital of their empire's oldest colony today to receive the homage and acclaim of Newfoundland on the last stop of their North American tour.

Their Majesties reached the gaily decorated capital after a 26-mile drive across the Avalon Peninsula from Holyrood on Conception Bay, where the liner, Empress of Britain, serving as a royal yacht on the return trip to England, anchored last night after a 25-hour voyage from Halifax.

The King and Queen will sail home tonight on their liner.

Governor Sir Humphrey Walwyn of Newfoundland welcomed them aboard the liner. A few moments later the King and Queen stepped ashore.

Fishermen lined the decks of their schooners to shout a welcome.

'Beauty Lobby' Spice Delayed

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Spectators who jammed the corridors in expectation of hearing spicy testimony in the mail fraud trial of William P. Buckner, Jr., and then had to be content with a lot of stuffy politics, held higher hopes today for resumption of the trial Monday.

Buckner and four co-defendants are accused in connection with an effort to win redemption of defaulted railroad bonds. The first two days of the trial were marked by testimony of young women concerning alleged "beauty lobby" junkies to Washington.

Miss Jackson Model for Tufts Class

A bust of "Miss Jackson 1940" as voted by the Tufts juniors by the Tufts seniors in the class day exercises held Friday afternoon shocked the entire Jackson student body.

This "gift" to the undergraduate class is in reprisal of the recent "stringing-up" of Joe Consolmagno, editor of the Tufts Weekly, who eulogized the beauty of Jackson co-eds in an editorial. James Dodwell of Whitman, star football player, made the presentation.

Among his other gifts were a bowl of goldfish to the freshmen who he said, were a good enough bunch, but rather hard to swallow.

He gave the sophomores a box of flea powder which he hopes will cure them permanently of the itch which they have been giving the freshmen all year.

Miss Evelyn Hagen of Concord and Alvin E. Fineberg of Chelsea delivered the chapel orations for Jackson and Tufts respectively, and Matthew J. Lambert of Winthrop and Miss Barbara A. Clarke of Ellsworth, Me., delivered the free orations for their respective departments.

Class spreads were held following the exercises, and the Class Day dance in the Cousins' gymnasium completed Senior Class Day for the 466 seniors who expect to receive degrees on Monday.

REPORTERS LEAVE ON CLIPPER 'PREVIEW'

NEW YORK, June 17—A great flying boat, the latest product of engineering science, will lift off the water and head for Europe today with the largest number of persons aboard ever to cross the Atlantic in an airplane.

The trip will be a "preview" flight for press and radio representatives—a "preview" to regular passenger service between the old and new worlds starting 11 days hence.

The "Atlantic Clipper," a 4½-ton machine with four motors delivering a total of 6000 horsepower, will have 30 persons aboard, including the crew, when she takes off for Horta, the Azores, the first port of call.

Since May 20 Pan American Airways, the first transport company in the world to establish regular commercial airplane service to Europe, has maintained a "shuttle" mail service on the route.

Today's flight will be the first on which anybody but crewmen or "official observers" have been transported.

Captain W. D. Culbertson, a native of Ashland, Ky., will be in command, and under him will work a crew of 11. The reporters—among them four women—and radio representatives will send news stories and broadcasts from the plane en route.

Age Bows to Youth In 'Citizens' Rites

For the first time in the history of the Commonwealth its new citizens—those boys and girls who, during the last year, have attained their majority and assumed the dignity and responsibility of taking part in the affairs of their government—are to be honored today.

Five thousand strong they assembled in take part in the annual Bunker Hill ceremonies, which, this year, are being dedicated to them as individuals, and to the ideal of citizenship to which they are expected to adhere.

The Bunker Hill Day committee, sponsors of a fête aimed as old as is the nation, are cooperating in every possible way with the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Charlestown Post, No. 344, who are sponsoring the ceremonies in honor of the New Citizens.

WHOLE CITY BACKS DRIVE

And the whole city is backing the post in its drive to initiate today a celebration which will be national in scope, with one day each year set aside for similar ceremonies.

The patriotic event which will be staged on Bunker Hill monument grounds, takes place immediately following the climax of a huge military, naval and civic parade.

Speakers include United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Governor Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin, John E. Kerrigan, assistant Boston City Council; Paul A. Dever, attorney general; Harry Holmes, state commander of the V. F. W.; John Maguire, state commander of the American Legion, and Councilor William J. Gavin, who will preside.

Martial music by massed veteran and high school bands, directed by Jimmy Coughlin, leader of the 101st Infantry veterans band, patriotic selections by members of the Yankee Boys chorus and the massed singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" will climax the historic program.

SECTION FOR YOUTHS

A special section has been reserved for the young citizens. They will be located directly in front of the speakers stand. Robert Stanton, of the Charlestown Post, V. F. W., will be in charge of arrangements for the young citizens' section.

Before the ceremonies close the young citizens, with right hands raised, will reaffirm their allegiance to the government of the United States and the Constitution.

The entire patriotic ceremonies will be broadcast over Radio Station WORL. Gordon Wayne, noted radio announcer and commentator will describe the proceedings to the air audience.

Scanlon, Lawyer And Editor, Weds

Miss Ruth Miriam Rogers of South Weymouth and Cornelius T. Scanlon, night editor of the Boston Evening American and an attorney, were married today at Bay.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Walter A. Leach, D. D., a classmate of the bridegroom at Boston College, class of 1928.

The wedding day marked the golden wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Frank Rogers, and the silver wedding anniversary of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles A. Gould of Elmhurst, L. I.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Reginald Rogers of Watertown, sister-in-law of the bride, while bridesmaids included Mrs. Edmund F. Henry of Arlington, Mrs. Thomas Dee of Concord and Mrs.

AT BANQUET in Charlestown Armory, ushering in Bunker Hill Day, Gov. Leverett Saltonstall is greeted by Charles S. Sullivan, Jr., toastmaster.

11,000 MARCH TO MUSIC OF 40 HOLIDAY BANDS

Saltonstall said: "Some of Jefferson's convictions seem especially timely now. Never should we entangle ourselves in the broils of Europe. Never has a generation the right to pass on a burden of debt to another generation. Never is corruption a necessary tool of government, for reliance can always be placed in the good sense and honesty of the people."

"In times like these it is well for us to pause and consider the solid foundations upon which our government was built."

Present also at the banquet were ex-Governors Curley and Ely, former Lieut.-Gov. Kelly, Atty.-Gen. A. Dever, Mayor Tobin and a host of state and municipal dignitaries.

MAYOR IS SPEAKER

Mayor Tobin pointed out that only a display of "Bunker Hill" courage on the part of public officials can solve the present economic problems.

"It would be a great thing," he said, "if we could inculcate into the officials of the nation the spirit of our forefathers who fought on Bunker Hill."

"If public officials were honest with the people they could remedy our present economic conditions."

Present at the banquet, accompanied by his father and mother, was Quartermaster Frank Murphy Jr., U. S. N., of Main st., Charlestown, a survivor of the sunken submarine Squalus, who received a tremendous ovation from the crowd.

At the annual reception of the Bunker Hill Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Atty. Gen. Dever warned that the "real dangers to Democracy are internal."

"I realize the threats which exist outside. But the real danger to Democracy is the danger of decay from within," he said.

Postmaster Peter F. Tague was the main speaker at the 53th annual dinner of the Veteran Firemen's Association.

"Without Bunker Hill there would have been no Fourth of July," he said. "So don't let the spirit of the day die. Don't wave the flag tonight and forget it tomorrow," he warned in a plea for good citizenship.

German Population Set at 79,600,000

BERLIN, June 17 (AP)—The government announced today that its recent census showed the population of Germany to be 79,600,000, not including Memelland or the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia. The census counted 38,800,000 males and 40,800,000 females.

A census of Memelland is to be taken soon and is expected to raise the population to 79,800,000. The official German news agency, DNR, said the addition of 8,800,000 inhabitants of Bohemia and Moravia gave Greater Germany a population of about 88,600,000.

CUT RELIEF BILL O.K.'D BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—A weary House put an emphatic "O. K." early today on a bill to provide $1,735,000,000 for relief during the year starting July 1, abolishing such WPA projects as theatrical productions and otherwise restrict work relief spending.

The bill was passed at the end of a tumultuous session which lasted more than 14 hours, one of the longest in recent years. Speaker Bankhead announced the rollcall vote was 373 to 21. Nine Democrats and 12 Republicans bailed out against the measure. It now goes to the Senate, where leaders promised swift consideration in order to replenish WPA coffers by July 1, when current appropriations run out.

Shortly before the final vote, the House shouted down a Republican proposal to turn administration of relief back to the states. It also defeated an effort by Representative Starnes (D., of Alabama) to add $375,000,000 to the total for heavy construction projects administered by the PWA.

As finally approved, the bill would transfer to that agency $125,000,000 of the $1,775,000,000 requested by President Roosevelt for the Works Progress Administration.

Joan Crawford's 'Bath Bubbler' Says It's Fun

HOLLYWOOD, June 17 (AP)—A new film studio odd job was created today—"bath bubbler."

His duties consist of dunking a long aluminum tube into Joan Crawford's bath, then turning on compressed air to make foam bubble up, covering all but her head and arms for a sequence in "The Women."

Herb Hatfield, Jr., of the prop department, who got the assignment remarked: "It's a new one on me, but it's fun."

Briton Arrested in Jap Blockade

TIENTSIN, June 17 (AP)—Tense British-Japanese relations were aggravated today when Japanese soldiers arrested G. A. Smith, a British explorer, following an argument between him and a Chinese policeman outside the British concession.

Smith was alleged to have struck the Chinese in the face. An unidentified companion then circulated a story, later disproved, that a Japanese sentry shot dead a man believed to be a White Russian. The British consul-general took steps to obtain Smith's release.

Informed Britons said they were preparing for a long "siege" in the belief that only the solution of the larger issues between Japanese and foreigners could end the localized dispute arising from a Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions imposed four days ago. A definite air of pessimism and a fatalistic acceptance of their situation was noticeable among foreigners as food prices soared, a milk shortage caused hardships among children and Japanese urged Chinese to bring independent pressure on the British to accede to Japanese demands.

British Warships To Run Blockade

TIENTSIN, June 17 (INS)—Three British warships, laden with food and well-armed to defend their mission, today were reported by Japanese sources to be speeding for Tientsin to run the Japanese-imposed blockade.

From the nearby ports of Chingwangtan and Weihaiwei, the reports said, the destroyer decoy, escort ship, minesweeper and depot ship Medway headed for Tientsin. Determined to steam up the Hai river to the western settlements, the first two fighting ships sailed from Chingwangtan, the latter from Weihaiwei.

London Keeps Ear To Tientsin Front

LONDON, June 17 (AP)—The British cabinet put aside the peace of usual weekends in the country today to keep in close touch with the situation in Tientsin where a Japanese blockade, now four days old, has caused alarm and threatened British interests.

Although an emergency cabinet meeting was called for Monday, any major development in North China would necessitate an earlier session.

Reports of various governmental departments—including the Board of Trade, which has been working

BULLETIN

TIENTSIN, June 17 (AP)—A Japanese sentry today shot dead a man believed to be a White Russian near the boundary of the British concession, sharply increasing the British-Japanese crisis here.

On possible retaliatory measures the past two days—are to be discussed at Monday's meeting. The government as yet has given no definite indication of the nature of such projected measures, but it was believed to be considering denouncing the British-Japanese 1911 trade agreement, which gives Japan most-favored-nation treatment.

U. S. Diplomat Confers on Crisis

TOKYO, June 17 (AP)—Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, the British ambassador, and Eugene Doonan, American charge d'affaires in Tokyo, discussed the British-Japanese dispute at Tientsin today, but there was no indication of any pending action by the United States.

It was understood the two diplomats merely exchanged information on the status of the concessions at Tientsin, under blockade by the Japanese.

Rothermere Favors 20,000 British Planes

LONDON, June 17 (AP)—Lord Rothermere, newspaper publisher, advocated today a British air force of 20,000 planes, disclosed he had suggested to Germany that Russia surrender to Hungary "the Sudetenland of Hungary" and urged Prime Minister Chamberlain to pursue a "policy of appeasement."

Lord Rothermere, who has been described as one of Germany's closest friends in England and who was air minister in 1917-18, made these points in a signed article in his newspaper, the Daily Mail.

Roosevelt, Guests On Week-End Cruise

WASHINGTON, June 17 (INS)—President Roosevelt, accompanied by Senate Majority Leader Burke, Ambassador to France William C. Bullitt and Senator and Mrs. Schwellenbach of Washington, will spend the weekend cruising on the White House yacht, Potomac on Chesapeake Bay to escape Washington's heat wave.

The presidential party motored to Annapolis late yesterday and loaded the yacht. The group expects to return to the Washington Navy Yard tomorrow afternoon.

2 Airliners on Hop From Azores to N. Y.

HORTA, The Azores, June 17 (AP)—Two transatlantic flying boats taking off from here today were en route to New York.

The Pan-American clipper "PAA 21" left at 12:45 P. M. (E. S. T.) and the French plane Ville de St. Pierre left at 3:25 p. m. (E. S. T.)

Grieving for her slain sister, Joan, age 14, young Rita Stevens sits on porch of home at Mauch Chunk, Pa., getting no joy from her high school graduation and diploma.

Slave Ring Linked in 'Doll Girl' Death

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., June 17—Through a cloud of official censorship even thicker than that which veiled the actual killing, the "self-defense" slaughter of 14-year-old Joan Stevens by Corporal Benjamin Franklin of the state motor police, today produced a white slavery investigation linking New York city and this coal region reservoir of girls.

After issuing a flat denial some hours earlier, Warden George Long of Carbon County jail admitted a couple had been locked up after being taken off a bus from New York at Stroudsburg, just this side of the New Jersey-Pennsylvania border.

He identified them as Lucy Pavlishin Vrabel, 21, of Nesquehoning, home town of the slain "doll girl," and Joseph J. Vrabel, 22, of Lansford, an adjacent community.

It was not explained whether they are married. The authorities said they were taken into custody in connection with a runaway trip Joan made to New York with them last April. The Vrabels girl has sisters in New York.

James C. McCready, counsel for Joan's family and a citizens' fire committee born of public indignation over the child's shooting, said: "The parents of Joan Stevens will file a white slavery complaint against Vrabel today and Lucy Vrabel will be charged with abetting violation of the Mann Act."

It is understood that the Vrabels vanished from this section after the Stevens girl was shot June 5. New York city authorities were asked to search for them and they are reported to have been lured back into Pennsylvania by ruse.

They were booked at the county jail on open charges. McCready had informed newspapermen the couple were in custody but both the state motor police and Warden Long said they knew nothing of it. It was four hours later before the warden admitted that the Vrabels were in his prison all the time.

When the true facts were finally made known it developed that county detectives Alex Allen and ex-Sheriff George T. Morgan, especially assigned to the Stevens case, had brought the prisoners to the jail.

McCready said he questioned the Vrabels for two hours without result. Police records show that Vrabel has been arrested three times, once on a charge of stealing a gun and ammunition.

Recently, he was questioned in an attempted attack case, but the prosecution was dropped. Joan's mother characterized Lucy Vrabel as the one who put wrong ideas in her daughter's head.

FUND FOR VICTIM

The citizens' justice committee, headed by Indore Riley, county commander of the American Legion, announced that next week would be Joan Stevens Fund Week and that subscriptions would be sought throughout the Panther Valley. Committee investigators said that just a few minutes before he killed her, Corporal Franklin was told Joan was "just a harmless school kid."

Franklin pumped eight bullets into the girl because, so he testified, she pulled a toy cap pistol on him. Her parents were not notified of the death until next day.

SABOTAGE HINTED IN SUB LOSS

PARIS, June 17 (AP)—Hints of suspected sabotage began to creep into sections of the Paris press today as the nation mourned the disappearance of the 240-ton submarine Phenix, with 71 men aboard, off the coast of Indo-China. It was announced that the only trace of the submarine was a circle of oil floating on the water off Cam Ranh Bay.

While in several newspapers asked questions like "Can this be the law of averages that three demagogues lose three submarines in less than a month?"

The Communist paper, L'Humanite said: "This commands suspicion." It linked three submarine disasters suffered by the United States Great Britain and France with the loss of the 34,000-ton French liner Paris, which burned April 19 at her 1st Havre dock. French authorities have worked on the theory that the fire was set by foreign agents.

RELATIVES DESPAIR

Widows and relatives of the men aboard the Phenix—missing since making a routine dive Thursday morning in Cam Ranh bay, 225 miles northeast of Saigon, capital of French Indo-China—alternately felt uncertainty and despair. Most of the families in the naval centers of Toulon, Lorient and Brest, received official notices which said brief: "Submarine Phenix disappeared 36 hours ago. All hope abandoned."

The depth of the ocean and two days' failure to locate the submarine were advanced as reasons for lack of hope. Naval authorities calculated that the Phenix air supply was exhausted today.

Flags on French naval units were at half-mast and the city went into formal mourning. With other French units, the Phenix was engaged in maneuvers in Cam Ranh Bay when it plunged and failed to reappear.

The Communique

"On the morning of June 15, the submarines Phenix and Espoir took part in exercises off Cam Ranh in collaboration with the Lomatte-Piquet (cruiser) and avia lion.

"The Phenix having plunged did not reappear. "Search was made immediately with the help of aviation but it was in vain.

"The bottom of the ocean at this point being more than 100 meters, after more than 24 hours of fruitless searching, loss of the Phenix and her crew was considered certain."

Study Sabotage Theory in Sinking

WASHINGTON, June 17 (INS)—The possibility that an organized sabotage campaign is being carried on against the submarine flotillas of the United States, France and Great Britain was studied at the Navy Department today.

The disasters which overtook first the U. S. submarine Squalus, and then the British Thetis, with loss of life of 26 and 99, respectively, were viewed by the navy high command as purely accidental.

But the Phenix catastrophe changed the picture. Statistics were studied and showed that in the course of thousands of previous dives the U. S. had lost no submarine in 12 years; the British and French none in five years.

WEIDMANN DIES ON GUILLOTINE

VERSAILLES, France, June 17 (AP)—Eugene Weidmann, 31-year-old mass murderer, falteringly went to his death on the guillotine this morning.

The man who killed the young Brooklyn dancer, Jean De Koven, formerly of Boston, and five others suddenly rebelled at death with his head on the block and tried to withdraw.

It took the aged strength of 70-year-old "Uncle Leopold" Desfourneaux, chief headman, and one assistant to unbuckle Weidmann's knees.

"Uncle Leopold" pushed Weidmann flat and his assistant pulled the victim by the hair. Then the blade fell—badly, but once was enough.

Before he flinched, Weidmann had expressed a desire to die as quickly as possible. In his cell before dawn he calmly wrote eight letters, one to Miss Ida Sackheim of Brooklyn, as aunt of Miss De Koven.

She accompanied the dancer to the Paris exposition in 1937. Weidmann lured the girl to his villa where he robbed and murdered her and buried the body.

"I solemnly declare that Jean De Koven was only a friend," he wrote to the aunt.

Weidmann was hurried to the guillotine by two assistants who, with their hands in his arm pits, pushed him to the block. His attorney, Vincent de Moro Giarfieri, called out "goodbye little one" at the prison door.

Ashen-faced, the prisoner caught a fleeting glimpse of the white-faced throng staring at him and the black-cloaked executioner. The execution took 20 seconds—ten seconds longer than "Uncle Leopold" tutor, the late Anatole Deblor, regularly required.

The crowd which waited through the night for Weidmann to die, hooted and catcalled at times. Police removed demonstrators promptly.

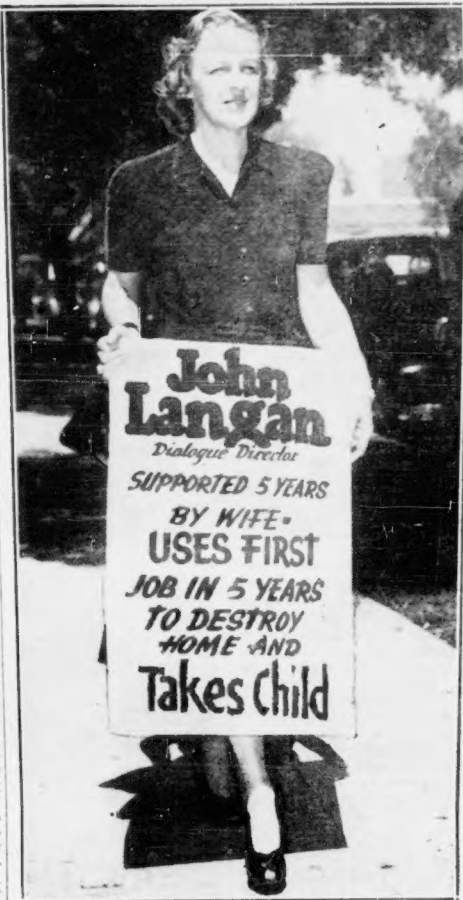

He had led a "murder for profit" ring operating from a suburban St. Cloud villa. His accomplice, Roger Millon, received a commutation to life imprisonment from President Lebrun.

Hunted Bridal Pair at Fair

A nation-wide hunt for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Snow, missing Salem honeymooners, was ended today with the revelation that their "life and death" mission was nothing more than a trip to the World's Fair in New York.

For 11 days, the couple had been sought with fear that they had met with foul play. In their honeymoon apartment on Federal street, Salem, they left behind unopened wedding presents and a note that they had left on a matter of "life and death." But all ended happily with receipt by Mrs. Dominic Rotondi of Marblehead, the bride's foster mother, of the following card:

"We have seen most of New York and the World's Fair. See you soon, Virginia."

Picketing Film Divorcee Faces Sentence Monday

HOLLYWOOD, June 17 (INS)—Found guilty of contempt of court for "picketing" her newly-divorced husband, John Langan, studio dialogue director, Joan Manners, film actress, must appear Monday for sentence.

When the couple was divorced several days ago, Judge Samuel R. Blake ordered their seven-year-old daughter, Joan, placed in a neutral home. He instructed the parents not to "harass or embarrass each other."

But Miss Manners paraded up and down before the studio in which her ex-husband was employed, carrying a banner which read:

"John Langan, dialogue director, supported for five years by wife, uses first job to destroy home and take child."

Miss Manners said today she planned to appeal Judge Blake's ruling regarding the child's custody.

Harvard Exercises To Begin Tomorrow

Commencement week at Harvard University begins tomorrow with the baccalaureate sermon by President James B. Conant in Memorial Church, ending with the Harvard-Yale boat races Friday.

Class day will be held Wednesday, with President Conant awarding degrees in commencement day, Thursday.

Governor Saltonstall, 74, will be chief marshal of the class day parade.

The parade of the alumni to the Stadium will form at 1:30. H. Lane Blackwell, Jr., of Cambridge, will deliver the Ivy oration and the reunion classes will present features. The exercises will conclude with the confetti battle.

The classes will then parade to the ball field for the Harvard-Yale baseball game at 3:30.

The annual literary exercises of the Harvard Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will be on Friday, June 23. Herbert Agar, associate editor of the Louisville Courier Journal, will be the orator and John Crowe Ransom, professor of Poetry at Kenyon College, will be Phi Beta Kappa poet. Judge Learned Hand, Harvard 33, of New York city, will preside. The exercises will be broadcast internationally by the non-commercial shortwave station W1XAL, of Boston, on 11.79 megacycles.

Wellesley

More than 900 alumnae returned to Wellesley College today for the annual parade on Tower Court Green, a feature of the 61st commencement.

Following the parade, alumnae and undergraduates will gather in Houghton Memorial Chapel for dedication of a stained glass window given by the class of 1939.

The Rev. Douglas Horton, secretary of the Council of Congregational and Christian Churches, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon tomorrow. Commencement will be held Monday.

Radcliffe

Radcliffe College today celebrated Alumnae Day (precursor of commencement week).

The Rev. Arthur Lee Kingsolving will be the speaker at baccalaureate services, tomorrow in the First Church, Cambridge.

Radcliffe's 56th Commencement exercises will be held Wednesday morning in Sanders Theater, with Greenville Clark, New York lawyer and member of the Harvard Corporation, as speaker. The chaplain will be Rev. Samuel A. Eliot. About 200 degrees will be awarded by President Comstock. Senior Red Tassel officers who will act as marshals are Emily Hull, South Boston, and Eleanor W. Blackhall, Milton.

Dartmouth

HANOVER, N. H., June 17—Dartmouth seniors, alumni and members of the faculty paraded to the gymnasium today for presentation of the 30-year class and the annual meeting of the Alumni Association.

The annual Dartmouth-Cornell baseball game was scheduled this afternoon, with the promenade concert of the Dartmouth band to be held tonight.

Baccalaureate services will be held tomorrow morning and degrees will be awarded to 492 members of the graduating class tomorrow evening in the Boma. The Glee Club concert will follow the commencement exercises.

Bowdoin

BRUNSWICK, Me., June 17—Forty-eight Massachusetts seniors are among the 129 who receive degrees today at the 134th commencement at Bowdoin College.

Thrilling Baseball Contest
"Mickey" Cochrane "Tells All"
Diamond Which Carried Curse
Crime of the "Dancing Barber"

By COLLIN CLINE

NO REAL BASEBALL fan would think of missing tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

To fail to read this newspaper would be to neglect two of the biggest, most interesting features in the history of the nation's favorite game.

May Yobe

First there's the WHOSIT contest, a thrilling and novel competition which offers substantial prizes and awards, including a complete set of baseballs personally autographed by the star players of the major leagues.

Second, there's the new REAL book on baseball by Gordon S. "Mickey" Cochrane, a nationally known authority admired by millions.

One of the diamond's traditional figures, "Mickey" confesses ALL in this volume, tells what he has seen and heard, and never hesitates to reveal an INSIDE story.

Mrs. Kennedy

MAY YOBE AND THE HOPE DIAMOND: A million words have been written in the past 25 years about that famous pair—the musical comedy star who rose to the topmost rank of British aristocracy and the sparkling gem with the reputed curse upon it.

But the true story has seldom, if ever, been told. That is why tomorrow, the Sunday Advertiser presents this glamorous, irresistibly charming woman's OWN ACCOUNT of her life.

MURDER IN CLOG TIME! is the gripping title of a Green Magazine crime story.

Written from official records, it concerns a "dancing barber" who stole out on Salisbury Beach one night to commit one of the most infamous offenses in police annals.

ANN MARSTERS, now in Hollywood, takes Green Magazine readers into the homes of actors and actresses who live in the far-famed film colony.

Miss Marsters writes an intimate, revealing type of story every motion picture fan will enjoy.

QUITE AS INTERESTING is the Advertiser's feature devoted to Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy and their nine sons and daughters.

The reporter pictures life in the household of the United States representative at the Court of St. James, tells how this remarkable man became one of the world's most important public servants, and draws a beautiful character portrait of Mrs. Kennedy, who despite the responsibilities of her very large family, remains as slim and as young appearing as a 16-year-old girl.

OTHER STELLAR FEATURES include: Damon Runyon's zealous column, "The Brighter Side"; George Holland's "Boston After Dark"; Walter Winchell's Broadway comments; Mark Hellinger's department, fashions and smart set doings; and the story behind the popular song hit "Wishing."

SOCIETY FOLLOWERS will particularly like Cholly Knickerbocker's article about the social favorite who entertained the Prince of Wales during his American visit and managed to outstrip all competition in the race for popularity.

Today, Mr. Knickerbocker reveals, that man is impoverished and unable to extend hospitality to any royal visitor.

IN THE AMERICAN WEEKLY, world's most widely read magazine, readers will find fascinating sketches by Alastair K. MacDonald, brilliant British artist, famous for his accurate portrayal of the customs of countries he has visited.

On the two center pages, handsomely illustrated, they will see scientific facts pertaining to Mother Nature's ingenuity in supplying many forms of life with instincts and other equipment to survive in a world of perils.

Explorer Marcel Homet describes the strange and horrifying ceremonies of Liberian devil worshippers who sacrifice boys and girls to assure marital happiness and trade their grandfathers to neighbors who want to appease the "devouring fiend" with human blood.

A scientific writer reports details concerning the latest experiments with sufferers from cancer, who are enveloped in lead air and lulled by subnormal body temperatures into painless suspended animation.

Other writers discuss such interesting topics as: "Cats on the Payroll," "Lives on Borrowed Blood," "Europe's Supplanted Sisters," "Treating Sick Minds with Pocket Money," "Making a Big Egg Into Three Little Ones," "Doesn't Mind Being the Champ of Model Boys," "Wife Beaters Who Were Beaten Up by the Law" and "A Sixth Sense for the Deaf."

Ordain 38 at Weston College

At Weston College 38 young men were ordained to the Roman Catholic priesthood this morning in the Chapel of the Holy Spirit. His Excellency, the Most Rev. Thomas A. Emmet, S. J., vicar-apostolic of Jamaica, B. W. I., administered the sacrament of holy orders to 28 members of the Society of Jesus, six Franciscan friars and four members of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate.

During the ancient and impressive ceremony Bishop Emmet was assisted by the Rev. James H. Dolan, S. J., provincial of the New England Jesuits; the Rev. Robert A. Hewitt, S. J., rector of Weston College; and the Rev. Forrest S. Donahue, S. J., professor of liturgy and philosophy at the Jesuit house of studies.

Because of the chapel's limited capacity, only members of the immediate families of the new priests attended the ceremony.

RULES ENGINEER SUICIDE

PORTLAND, Me., June 17.—A verdict of suicide was given today by Medical Examiner Wilbur F. Leighton in the death of Artell H. Sumner, 72, of Kennebunk, former Boston & Maine railroad engineer, who plunged 30 feet to death from a window in Maine General Hospital.

Wind-Driven Tide Uproots Fla. Trees

PENSACOLA, Fla. June 17 (INS).—A wind storm reaching a velocity of 52 miles an hour swept inland off the Gulf of Mexico here, driving a high tide before it into Pensacola harbor and uprooting trees. The barometer dropped sharply as the gale lashed Santa Rosa Island, just across the bay from Pensacola.

Consumer Reports
Steal the Show

Consumer goods reports stole New England trade headlines in the past week . . . As they have so often before this spring . . . Other lines did well but had the misfortune to compete with really sparkling results in retail DEPARTMENT . . . Store sales easily provided the individual high spots . . . Dun & Bradstreet's weekly review places the gain for the New England district at 11 per cent . . . While the Boston stores are credited with an improvement of 19.9 per cent . . . Which is all the proof required that volume is turning upward with a vengeance . . . And the best part of the report is that the increase was passed back to whole-sale buyers who experienced an active week . . . Which can only mean that troublesome inventories of finished goods are being drawn down quite rapidly . . .

SECOND . . . Most important New England trade development is the better tone of cotton textile mill reports . . . Especially since it is well known that the most worrisome inventory situation is found in the finished cloth market . . . Sales of gray in particular were encouraging . . . Nearly every trading day's sales were in excess of production . . . Demand for all cloth lines has been constant and prices have begun a slow ascent, without discouraging buyers . . . Which probably means permanently higher prices are now the expected thing . . . The one last bit of reassurance needed now is up to the mills themselves . . . And will be supplied by their definitely adopting some form of curtailment . . .

FOODER . . . The best kind of recovery is supplied by the building industry . . . And the co-operative banks of Massachusetts have been doing their best to keep the quality high . . . During May they made a major contribution to home ownership development in almost every section . . . By writing more than $2,750,000 in mortgages in the residential field . . . The figures have just been compiled by Warner M. Allen, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League . . . Who says that an encouraging feature of the business is the manner in which the banks are preventing excessive loans and overloading of wage earners with too large payments at any given time . . .

PROSPEROUS . . . Ray State industries have not been too hard to locate throughout the recent recession . . . But few have done better than the Florence Slove Co. . . Treasurer John H. Foster sends the latest interim report and once again it makes cheerful reading . . . Another quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share has been declared . . . And President R. L. Fowler reports sales in the first five months were about 26 per cent ahead of last year . . . He also feels that prospects appear favorable . . . A new heater line will be ready for full marketing and is already in production at both the Gardner, Mass., and Kankakee, Ill., plants . . .

MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Economic Commentator

Simplification
Of Insurance Policies

The life insurance world is mildly agog over the suggestion made in this column that companies simplify their policies and reports and give a full accounting of all acts in their behalf.

With the net cost of insurance to policyholders rising sharply in recent years, as a result of prolonged depression and New Deal fiscal experiments, it comes doubly desirable for financial institutions to interpret their trustworthiness with clarity.

Once they begin to do this, they will stimulate new interest by tens of millions of policyholders in the economic life of the nation as it bears on the safety of their savings.

Until the great rank and file of savers are aroused by understandable factual information, they are likely to be hostile toward matters that touch their interests vitally. Furthermore, while kept in ignorance, they are easy prey for unscrupulous politicians and "shyster" outside insurance analysts.

With the dividend scale in many companies changing adversely, it behooves management to translate into understandable English and simple arithmetic the nature of the action taken. Once the great mutual companies begin to make full disclosure and encourage policyholders to vote in company elections, they will enhance their prestige by reinterpreting themselves as vast and successful consumer co-operatives.

Things are happening in this direction.

Acting on suggestions made in this column, policyholders asked a New York company for full information concerning the current action taken by the trustees in regard to this year's dividend scale about which he had been told nothing in the conventional dividend notice, which only gave the lump dollar figure credited to his particular policy. An actuary of the company invited him to visit the home office and inspect the trustees' resolution outlining the dividend scale.

That is a step in the right direction, but the data should be sent out on the initiative of the company to all policyholders. Moreover, the technical jargon of the actuaries should be restated in simple lay language.

Reflecting the nationwide interest in life insurance circles aroused over these proposals, "The Insurance Field" in its leading editorial in its current edition, relates my proposals to be the need to discourage exploitation of gullible policyholders by outside "experts" who charge fees for information that should be available free.

"Now," says "The Insurance Field," "comes M. S. Rukeyser, financial commentator for International News Service, with a practical suggestion for curbing such nuisances and at the same time improving relations with assureds. In brief he says: 'If the insurance companies simplified and clarified their insurance contracts and their notices of premiums and dividends, it would not take outside "experts" working for fees to interpret what it's all about.'"

Mixed Trend Prevails in Stock Market

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Slight leanings toward recovery were displayed by leading stocks in today's market although many issues had difficulty in negotiating an advance.

Dealings were exceptionally quiet throughout. Prices were a shade mixed at the start, but minor price signs were plentiful despite later strengthening of some pivots.

Traders were still timid, brokers said, because of the continued Far Eastern tension. The British-Japanese controversy apparently tended to offset a fairly good brand of domestic news, both from Washington and the industrial front.

Prominent shares on the upside were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, Sperry, Eastern Air Lines, Santa Fe, U. S. Gypsum, American Smelting and Union Carbide.

Bonds pointed selectively upward. Grain and cotton futures were a trifle uneven.

The financial district saw a constructive action in the figures of the Federal Reserve Board disclosing the country's department store sales for the week ended June 10 topped the comparable period a year ago by 10 per cent. In the previous week the year-to-year increase was 9 per cent.

Best showings were made by the districts of Chicago, Atlanta, New York, St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York, Kansas City, Minneapolis and San Francisco.

A cheering also was the summary of the F. W. Dodge Corp. estimating new construction and engineering projects undertaken during May in 37 eastern states aggregating $308,487,000, highest for any similar month since 1930.

FRIEND LUMBER EXPANDS PLANT

Expansion of facilities because of constantly increasing business was reported by Friend Lumber Company, Medford and Lowell, who have built a new warehouse in Medford and extended a sidetrack a quarter of a mile to service the new structure.

The Medford yard contains nine warehouses with a large office building at 29 Gibson st., opposite the Glenwood station. The company occupies 26 acres of land, buildings and material to supply everything that is used in construction.

In addition, the company specializes in all types of insulation, one of the important factors in home improvement today. Insulation is generally recommended in building circles and the installation of insulating tile and plank not only makes a room cozy in summer but warmer in winter.

TEXTILES HOLD PRICE GAIN; VOLUME DROPS

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—The flow of textiles in this street slowed up considerably this week following the heavy turnover of the preceding period. Recently advanced prices, however, were firmly maintained and in a few instances even advanced.

Mills were still chary of contracting for delivery beyond mid-July. This was due largely, commission men said, to long-heralded output curtailment and the impending wage-hour schedule changes in the textile industry. At the same time, they added, this was responsible for considerable buying.

Inquiry continued broad for Standard Print Cloth and Broadcloth counts, coming mainly from converters and the industrial trade. Most popular construction in volume of sales was the 80x20, four-yard print cloth, quoted at 6 cents. Also, four-yard sheeting count was advanced to

Service--Not Profit, Ford's Youth Slogan

NEW YORK, June 17 (INS)—Henry Ford, celebrating both the 36th anniversary of his automobile company and Ford day at the World's Fair, advised young men of the nation that the desire to be of service to humanity—not the desire for profits—is the greatest motive in life.

"The principal thing the young man—the real maker of the world of today—will see at this fair," said the manufacturer, "is that the work motive far outstrips the profit motive. I have always believed that if you go in for money and nothing but money, you will not get it; but if you go in sincerely and well-prepared to do something useful, you will never lack the money to carry it out."

Ford, who with his son, Edsel, joined in welcoming the 27,000,000th Ford to the fair, also made his peace with history.

"They tell me that I once said 'History is bunk,'" he reminded. "Not this history. Here at the fair is the real story of mankind—it makes wars and politics look cheap. All this progress did not come from passing laws or making speeches; it came because men did something to serve an unfilled need; it came from men's hands and from the land."

N.E. Appliance Group to Meet

More than 3000 radio, electrical appliance and furniture dealers from all New England will gather in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Bradford on June 28 and 29 to witness the preview of the 1939-40 line of radio and electrical appliances.

Due to the many changes and improvements in this year's radio and electrical appliances the Radio Wholesalers' Club, Inc., has engaged the entire ballroom of the Hotel Bradford. More than 10,000 square feet of floor space will be utilized in bringing to New England dealers the latest that both of these industries have to offer.

The 1939 trade show is expected to attract a greater attendance than in previous years. Great sums of money have been expended to make this presentation from a dealer's standpoint one of genuine interest, as well as to prove conclusively that the radio and appliance products are not only bearing national reputation, but merchandise that stands well above the average.

The show will again be sponsored by the Radio Wholesalers' Club, Inc., composed of the leading Boston wholesale distributors of radio and electrical merchandise. It will be also a trade show, with only the dealers, salesmen and service men admitted.

Good rayon turnover was confined to a relatively small group of fabrics. Interest in sheers dropped up after recent sluggishness although prices were barely firm to 1/2 cent lower. Coverings against fall requirements accounted for much of the business. Rayon loom activity picked up to 77 per cent of capacity from 60 per cent, the previous week.

Sales of silk sheers remained negligible, but interest seemed wider. Continued strength of the raw silk market checked buying. The hosiery section was cheered by a step-up in retail distribution.

Wool goods markets slowed down a bit although reports from manufacturing centers indicated worried mills were increasing operations on fall lines. Demand for tropical wools and a few types of women's wear materials improved, however.

Burlap remained in the doldrums with orders confined to fill-in deliveries. Prices were firm.

Eccles Hints U. S. Credit To Business

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Relief that President Roosevelt will propose to Congress a new program of federal lending to stimulate business was strengthened today by the action of one of his foremost financial advisers, Marriner S. Eccles, in strongly advocating such outlays.

Eccles, who headed a flourishing chain bank system in Utah and neighboring states before he came to Washington with economic and monetary ideas that led to his appointment as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, took the lead in an effort to muster public support for the new lending program.

Speaking before the Harvard Business School Alumni at Boston last night, he said the industries which offered greatest hope for re-employment of labor were housing construction, railroads and utilities, and that the government ought to encourage them to make greater capital expenditures.

Declaring the government must not "drift" along hoping for miracles to improve business, Eccles added:

"We must adopt a program of undertaking increased public investments in useful enterprises of a kind that private capital will not undertake, but which, nevertheless, can be in large part self-liquidating."

"Such public investment could take the form of toll roads, tunnels and bridges; rural rehabilitation and farm tenancy loans, especially in the south, to make our farmers independent and self-sustaining; an extension of the rural electrification program; hospital and sanitation facilities to reduce the appalling economic waste of sickness and to make our people healthier and more efficient; and expansion of public housing for the lowest income groups."

LISTEN, WORLD!

Why Do Some Folks Sneer At Everybody?

By Elsie Robinson

CANADA'S POLING is first-hand News to us all these days. The "pull" of these two young people lacking its immensely... tired, homesick, yet game to the last smiling bow in them, is something that touches fellow Canadians and, still, the rest of the world.

Politics? Maybe. But they leave us feeling nearer to our neighbors than ever in our history.

William Lyon Phelps phrased it beautifully in a few words last year, at the time Yale University conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws upon John Buchan, Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada, during the first official visit ever paid by a Governor General of Canada to a President of the United States. Said he:

"In an insane world, maddened by the beating of war drums, the most eloquent spectacle is something that cannot be seen; the invisible boundary line between Canada and the United States, without a fort, a soldier or a gun."

THERE'S SOMETHING more than smooth politics... there's a statement that goes to the very roots of every human existence whatever its blood or boundaries. "THE INVISIBLE BOUNDARY LINE" doesn't exist merely between these United States and Canada...it MAY and CAN exist in every life...it MUST exist if we are to know any real power and pride and peace.

We all have "boundary lines" in our lives. Geographical boundary lines are relatively unimportant. It does not matter greatly what we do. And that is true. But spiritual things are so very important. It matters tremendously how we live, how we live of hate or friendliness, of cruelty or of love, of darkness or of light.

Fifty years ago, we were believed in friendliness and fair play. Today we distrust and sneer at everything, everything. We expect trouble . . . and get it. Even worse . . . we think that "ONLY SAPS RELIEVE IN PEACE."

Nothing could be more stupid. The man who believes in hate and fear doesn't need an enemy to polish him off . . . he kills himself by his own secret festering. Those who hate will get what they expect by return mail.

Lou Gehrig Passes Grade

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 17.—(AP) Lou Gehrig, New York Yankee first baseman, passed his final physical examination at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., today, and will probably leave for New York tomorrow.

Gehrig, 34, has been in the hospital since June 15, when he was stricken with a severe case of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, a disease that causes the muscles to waste away.

He was taken to the hospital after a routine check-up and said they found "nothing up at the hospital, nothing at all," he said. "None of the physicians would read the findings."

Wilson Clicks Again

Let's look at Dave Wilson's Suffolk Downs score-sheet:

Six Daily Doubles in eleven days.

Thirty-nine winners for the same period.

A bankroll, playing each top Wilson horse $2 to win, and $2 on the Daily Double, of $180.00.

Dave came through yesterday with two more winners; High Pool in the third and Halcyon in the fourth on top of the four winners he put across the previous day.

Without giving further details of the King of Handicappers' victory streak, let us repeat only what racegoers everywhere are saying:

WIN WITH WILSON!

Wilson's selections appear exclusively every day in the Boston Evening American, and in the Sunday Advertiser.

Story Time Best In Wilson's Book

By DAVE WILSON

(Selections for fast track)

BEST BET — STORY TIME, 2ND RACE

Away in a tangle and shuffled far back in the early stages the other day, W. H. Tavenor's Story Time came from out of the clouds under listless handling and over a track fetlock deep in mud to finish a smashing third behind Fair Time and Quaternary.

Your envoy believed the Challenor 2nd fully several hours the best mare in the above-mentioned race. She can prove this contention by racing to victory over classier opposition this afternoon at Suffolk Downs.

FIRST RACE

Phalaris, Sun Patty, Rough Biscuit

Phalaris, a son of Pharamond, 2nd and Princess Nora, cost J. H. Louchheim a cool $11,500 last fall at the Saratoga yearling sale. He was easily the most expensive of the numerous sons and daughters of the noted French sire to go under the hammer. Four panels in 47 4-5 and other impressive trials tend to lend much to his prestige. Believe he will earn brackets in his first appearance under silks. SUN PATTY and ROUGH BISCUIT are the "dope" of the race.

SECOND RACE

Story Time, Night Chase, Wolf

If any mare shows clean heels to STORY TIME in this race, it probably will be NIGHT CHASE. The latter won her most recent start, and ahead of that finished in front of the top selection, a short mare. The weight shifts favor Story Time. WOLF is descending the claiming ladder, and may warrant heavy support in the "iron-men."

THIRD RACE

Epitaph, Bow Tip, Cave Hill

Epitaph tired right on the wire in his last race and was beaten narrow margins by Blue Marvel and Mizwell. He figures much the best of the field. BOW TIP, on the slow side in most recent endeavors, figures next best in a two-horse race. CAVE HILL looks good as anything for the show award.

FOURTH RACE

Proph, Little Banner, Unconquered

PROPH, an easy winner in fast time last Saturday, is picking up nine additional pounds, but looks all over a repeater. LITTLE BANNER has a weight shift in his favor and may prove dangerous if his recent race in the mud did not serve to dull his speed. UNCONQUERED, although beaten in the above race, is entitled to a royal chance, according to the remainder.

Beauty on the Beach—Rita Nevaras (in foreground) and Mildred Gedraitis, both of South Boston, take time out between swims at Carson Beach as they enjoy a "perfect day" on the harbor shore. But that, alack, was yesterday. Maybe the girls can repeat on Sunday if the weatherman is kind.

To the Rescue! The French naval salvage ship Fidele, equipped with super diving suit (being lowered into the water), will be rushed to Indo-China, where French sub Phenix has vanished with crew of 60—third of three mysterious submarine disasters within a month. In 1932 the Phenix's sister sub, the Promethee, met similar fate, with death toll of 62. STORY ON PAGE 6
